ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A clock generator for providing programmable control of an output clock, the clock generator includes a mechanism for creating a plurality of clocks offset in phase; two programmable selectors for selecting two clocks from the plurality of clocks; and logic for combining the two selected clocks to create an output clock with any combination of offset, if any, and width.